Pray for the Days Ahead

Happy New Year. We're about to get a new president. Everything seems possible, but the barriers in health care are high. Trump's nominees who ultimately take charge of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services and its divisions – and members and committees of Congress – will decide whether freedom wins the day.

Our organization, Citizens' Council for Health Freedom, will be using every connection we have to impact their decisions this year. We'll be flying in and out of D.C. trying to achieve certain legislative goals. We likely have just 12-18 months to make it happen. Thank you for whatever you do for health freedom. President Trump's election makes victories possible, but there's no guarantee. Pray for the days ahead.

Presented daily by Twila Brase, President and Co-founder
