Walgreens Tries to Destroy Physician Practice

Walgreens is up to no good. For reasons it has not divulged, it blocked all controlled-substance prescriptions from a black physician running a pain clinic. That means nationwide. Dr. Courtney Morgan, MD has no restrictions on his medical license and his clinic has consistently passed yearly state inspections. Controlled substances include pain medications and drugs for seizures, hormone issues, and more.

The block not only prevents him from treating his patients, it damages his reputation. At a hearing before a judge, Walgreens presented no witnesses and asked no questions of his witnesses. The judge ruled for the doctor, issuing an injunction against Walgreens. Walgreens has appealed the case. Why is Walgreens trying to shut down this doctor?
